

Biography – Joe Punaro

Joe Punaro is the Director of Federal Client Solutions for Dynology Corporation. In this position he is responsible for the company's web-enabled congressional application and new business development. He is responsible for fielding teams and leading projects that report to the highest echelons of the military services. Dynology Corporation is a certified small business focused primarily on the Department of Defense. The company has extensive experience with SharePoint implementations for both commercial and federal clients. He joined Dynology in 2006 and works in the Vienna, Virginia office.

From 2001-2005, Punaro was on active duty as a United States Marine Corps officer based in San Diego, California. He served as a Company and Platoon Commander during his tour at Camp Pendleton. Punaro was a Platoon Commander during Operation Iraqi Freedom, and took part in the assault on Baghdad in April of 2003. He was present on the historic day of 9 April 2003 when the statue of Saddam Hussein was toppled in Baghdad. He was attached to Third Battalion Fourth Marines based out of 29 Palms, California.

He is a graduate of James Madison University and holds a Bachelor of Business Administration in Marketing Information Systems and Finance. He is working towards a master's degree in Government from Johns Hopkins University. During his college years he worked for Science Applications International Corporation, Senator John Warner of Virginia, and the United States Securities and Exchange Commission.

He has seven military decorations to include the Navy and Marine Corps Achievement Medal with combat "V".